

Betsy McCall waits up for Santa

"I'm going to stay up until Santa comes," announced Betsy on Christmas Eve, "to make sure he doesn't forget a present for Nosy." Mummy hesitated. "All right," she agreed

"Why don't you sit here by the fire?" said Mummy to Betsy and tucked a blanket around her. The flickering fire made Betsy very drowsy. Her head dropped and she was asleep!

Betsy was awakened by Nosy licking her face. Suddenly she remembered—Christmas! "But I was sitting up!" she thought. "What happened?" Then she saw the stockings

One for her and one for Nosy! Santa hadn't forgotten. He'd even brought them upstairs, where she'd find them first thing! So she and Nosy sat up in bed and opened them

Betsy's nightgown and peignoir were a Christmas present from Aunt Sue

Betsy opened Aunt Sue's present on Christmas Eve and put it right on!
