

BETSY McCALL GOES TO A WEDDING

Guess what! We're having a wedding! It's Linda's teacher, Miss Jessup. She has pretty blue eyes and jet-black hair, and she's so kind and lovely to all the kids in Linda's class—and you know how kids THAT age can be! Well, the most romantic thing happened: One day last spring, it was raining cats and dogs and little fishes. Linda's uncle Bob was visiting her mother—he's a lawyer in Greenville, about ten miles from here—and he brought some papers about something or other that had to be signed. Anyway, when the rain started, he said he would drive over to school to pick up Linda and bring her home. And of course, the second he saw Miss Jessup, BANG! he fell in love. The wedding's next Sunday at Community Church. And here's the most wonderful part. Guess who's to be ring bearer! It's Linda! And guess who is the flower girl. ME! I'm so excited about it. Mommy has made our dresses—both alike—of white lace. I just hope I won't drop my flowers or stumble in the aisle or step on anybody's toes or do something HORRIBLE like that. Mommy says I act as though it were my wedding. And a tiny little bit of it is!

All these dresses are from McCall's patterns. Linda's pretty party dress, with scalloped edge at the neckline, is 7808. Mrs. McCall thought it was so pretty she decided to make one exactly like it, for Betsy
