

COOKBOOK

So here it is, my own cookbook, and here are my cousins and my friends who helped me get it ready—like trying the recipes, and measuring things, and using the range, and tidying up the kitchen afterward, and so on.

The oldest one is my cousin Barbara McCall, in the chef's hat. Next is her brother, Sandy, who is 12½ years old. My youngest cousin is Linda, who is only five years old. My two friends are about my age—Drusilla is two months younger than I am, and Sukey is just one year older.

I almost called this my "Happy Times Cookbook," because each recipe made me remember the happy time I had when I first tasted it—like my first visit to Paris and eating my first French crêpes... and the lunch we had in Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen... and the darling dolls' party at home... and a beach picnic with a wonderful lunch... and a surprise birthday party. All of the recipes have been tested, and they are just the easiest, as you will see. Turn the page, and let's begin!
